10. ARCHBISHOP AMONG THOSE MEETING WITH UKRAINIAN PRESIDENT IN U.S.

During their visit to the United States, President Volodymyr Zelensky and First Lady Olena Zelenska met with the Ukrainian community in New York and visited the exhibition "Alexandra Exter: The Stage is a World" at the Ukrainian Museum. The meeting gathered leaders of Ukrainian public organizations, cultural institutions, and educators. President Zelensky expressed gratitude to the community for their efforts in promoting Ukrainian identity and keeping the U.S. focused on Ukraine's cause. He also shared updates on Ukraine's ongoing fight for victory and peace, his discussions with U.S. officials, and Ukraine's prospects in NATO. After the event, Archbishop Borys Gudziak recounted his brief address to President Zelensky, thanking him for his leadership and resilience. "I told him that his calm and steady presence throughout this challenging time has been an inspiration to all who value human dignity, democracy, and freedom," the Archbishop shared. Reflecting on the president's interactions with soldiers and the families of fallen heroes, Archbishop Gudziak said: "I told him that I've seen how he addresses soldiers, widows, and orphans—not out of formality, but with genuine care. I encouraged him to protect his heart, as times of danger often cause people to close off. I emphasized that maintaining a large heart and broad vision is essential for leadership." The Archbishop also recalled a lighthearted moment: "I joked that I wasn't initiating his canonization, which made him and those present laugh." He concluded by reaffirming that Zelensky's leadership, along with the courage of Ukrainian soldiers and citizens, is deeply appreciated in the United States, particularly among American Catholics.

OUR MISSION PARISH: Saints Peter and Paul Ukrainian Greek Catholic Church

A Peaceful Ending of Our Lives

Surely the secret of true life is to accept each state as it comes. To die the death and to live the new life, not to cling to the past but to live with total integrity in the present. Now in all these cases out of dying there comes resurrection. Not loss but enrichment, not decay but growth. Something dies means something comes alive. May not the death that comes right at the end of our life, fit into that pattern? May not our bodily death be the final stage in our growth? The last and greatest in the long series of deaths and resurrections, that we have been experiencing ever since the day we were born. If the small deaths each lead beyond death to resurrection, may this not be true of the great death that awaits us when we finally leave this world? May this not be the greatest passover? Then we should enlarge our vision, we should look beyond our own life stories to the Christ story. We should relate the death and resurrection pattern within our own life to the death and resurrection of Jesus our Savior. Our story makes sense in the light of His story. Our small deaths and resurrections are joined across history through His definitive death and resurrection. What do we hear at Paschal midnight? "Let none fear death, for the death of the Savior has set us free. He has destroyed death by undergoing death. Christ is risen and death reigns in fear. Christ is risen and there is none dead in the tomb."
