ALWAYS PROTECT US

Always protect us, be with us Mary,
In all the hardships of our life,
And be our hope when death comes to call us
You are the help in our journey's strife.

(Repeat) We bring O Loving Mother,
Our hearts as faith-gift to you,
We worship God, He is Our Father,
We worship God, He is our King,
We worship God, He is our Father,
We worship God, He is our King.

We long for God to be at the center
Of every home and family,
We pray His spirit lives in our children
That knowing God they'll walk joyfully.

Repeat... We bring

Messengers of God's Presence

Angels are a commercial enterprise. It is easy to find images of them in books, statuettes, lapel pins, and holy cards. They convey assurance and holiness to many people. Yet a moment's reflection upon the biblical witness to angels reminds us that they are about much more than the sweetness of a beautiful face with wings.

There is a long tradition in the Hebrew Bible that God reigns in the midst of a heavenly council of angels. The First Book of Kings 22:19 describes such a scene: "I saw the LORD sitting on his throne, with all the host of heaven standing beside him to the right and to the left of him." The biblical tradition, therefore, presents God's will as being mediated to humans through the activity of spiritual beings. The angels bear the news of God's good favor to earth.

Because angels are messengers of God's presence to us, their actions in the bible portray God's justice, love and protection. God is just, and many times the bible presents angels executing God's justice. But God's love is also revealed as angels announce the great events of salvation.

There has been concern throughout Christian history that the respect we direct towards angels should not compete with the worship which we give to God alone. St. Augustine is credited with the most useful explanation of how to keep the proper perspective. He teaches that we venerate angels "out of charity, not out of servitude." Angels are messengers of God's presence. They are not intended to be an object of fascination in themselves but a reflection back to the love of the One who sends them. If angels do not lead us to a deeper commitment in our relationship with God, they have failed utterly in their mission.
