11. STOLEN INNOCENCE

Stolen Innocence: International Children's Day Marks a Day of Tears and Hope in Washington, D.C. On June 1, amidst the celebratory spirit of International Children's Day, Ukraine House in Washington, D.C. hosted a heart-wrenching event. Organized by the Ukrainian National Women's League of America and the Embassy of Ukraine, the day served as a stark reminder of the war's forgotten tragedy: the devastating impact on Ukraine's most vulnerable – its children. Beyond the headlines of casualties and destruction lies a chilling reality – the systematic kidnapping of Ukrainian children by Russia. Torn from their families and homeland, these innocents face forced "russification," a cruel attempt to erase their identity. The event resonated with the presence of Ukrainian Catholic, Orthodox, and Protestant clergy, their prayers echoing the cries for justice. Representatives from the US Department of State and Department of Justice shared about the creation of a special war crimes unit to investigate these kidnappings. The United States, alongside Ukraine and international courts, vows to hold perpetrators accountable. The day's theme, "children praying for children," captured the poignant spirit. Local Ukrainian-American children, their voices filled with both sorrow and resilience, sang and prayed for their brothers and sisters trapped in a war they never chose.

Prove Your Faith by Your Trust

“Look at the birds of the air,” says Jesus. What a splendid example for our faith to follow! If God’s providence bestows an un-failing supply of food on the birds of the air who neither sow nor reap, we ought to realize that the reason for people’s supply running short is human greed. The fruits of the earth were given to feed all without distinction and nobody can claim any particular rights. Instead, we have lost the sense of the communion of goods, rushing to turn these goods into private property. The birds do not know famine because they do not claim anything specially for themselves and neither do they have any envy of others. “Consider the lilies of the field: not even Solomon in all his glory was arrayed like one of these.

If God so clothes the grass which is alive today and tomorrow is cast into the oven, how much more will he clothe one of you!”

Listen to these stupendous and uplifting words. With this parable of flowers and grass the Lord urges us to hope that God will also be merciful to us. Nothing is more persuasive than a glance at unthinking creatures who have received such beautiful dress from providence. Surely we should be all the more ready to believe that human beings, if they entrust themselves completely to God and free themselves of all their worries, will not lack anything.

St. Ambrose of Milan
